French Minister Pichon At Odds With GERMAN RADICALS GAINING POWER President On Inclusion Of The League PLAN SOVIET REPUBLIC FOR NATION Constitution In Final Peace Terms

Indications Are That Wilson Must Again Throw His Whole Strength Into Putting Plans In Action

DIFFERENCES ARE VERY MYSTIFYING

By CARL D. GROAT

PARIS, March 17.—Foreign Minister Pichon's claim that the League of Nations will not be included in the preliminary peace treaty was emphatically denied today in American official circles. President Wilson and the other American commissioners are standing pat on its inclusion, it was stated. Surprise was expressed that Pichon should hold views to the contrary. The President, it is known, intends to make a strong fight for inclusion of the League. He feels that France and Great Britain need the League even more than America, hence Pichon's statement astounded the Americans. An early peace is desirable by President Wilson, it was stated, and he holds that inclusion of the League in the pact is vital to the Americans. He was said to be especially surprised at Pichon's action in view of the fact that the French along with the others signed the plenary resolution in January with the League's inclusion. The President plans to attend this afternoon's meeting of the Supreme War Council and those close to him believe that a re-statement of his position might be forthcoming.

By ROBERT J. BENDER

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Apparent disagreement between President Wilson and French Foreign Minister Pichon as to whether the League of Nations covenant should be embodied in the first peace treaty concluded with Germany added fire to the League fight today. Administration officials here were obviously confused as to the situation arising in Paris. It has been the view here that the first preliminary treaty with Germany need be virtually over an extension of the armistice and not subject to ratification by the Senate and therefore not necessarily containing the League's covenant. United Press dispatches today however, indicate that the preliminary treaty will be subject to Senate ratification and will cover most of the peace articles, including those for reparation and indemnities and for arranging boundaries. In view of this the President will certainly carry his fight to a finish for embodiment of the League in his treaty.

52 Senators Oppose League

By L. C. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, March 17.—A clear majority of the next Senate is pledged to vote against the League of Nations' covenant unless amended, the opposition declared today. Eleven Democrats today have declared openly and privately their opposition to the League in its present form. Forty-one Republicans are definitely on record against the covenant. This makes a total of 52, three of a majority. Republicans opposing the present form of the covenant are the 39 who signed the round robin with Norris and Kenyon added since adjournment of Congress. Democrats openly in opposition to the covenant include Reed, Thomas, and King.

Final Action On Military Terms

By FRED S. FERGUSON

PARIS, March 17.—Final action on the military terms of the preliminary peace treaty with Germany was to be taken up by the Supreme War Council this afternoon. The treaty will be presented to Germany by March 25, according to general opinion today.

MILITANT PASTOR ROUNDS OUT FIRST DECADE OF SERVICE

Yesterday marked the passing of the tenth anniversary of Dr. E. C. Reeve's pastorate of the First Presbyterian church of Clearfield. Dr. Reeve begins his eleventh year, as the second oldest pastor in point of service in Clearfield, his record of continuous service being exceeded by about one year by Rev. Father M. A. Ryan, of St. Francis church who came to Clearfield in 1908.

During his pastorate here Dr. Reeve has been an indefatigable laborer in the Lord's vineyard and has given a splendid account of his stewardship during every minute of that time.

Aside from his church work he has been to the forefront in every movement for civic betterment, while his patriotic labors during the past two years have been surpassed by no other individual in this community. In his daily life he has been a model of industry and loyalty to the cause he preached.

undiluted, untiring Americanism from both pulpit and rostrum and no labor for his country in the support and upbuilding of the morale of its brave defenders was too arduous to deter the militant churchman from going the limit of endeavor in every way.

In addition to his labors at home he volunteered for service with the Y. M. C. A. in the trenches of France and was ready with bag and baggage packed to step aboard the steamer to carry him across to the arduous labors back of the front line when the signing of the Armistice relieved the necessity and he was reluctantly compelled to remain at home.

During Dr. Reeve's pastorate he accepted into membership in his church 546 persons. Of these 377 were by profession of faith and 169 by letter. He also officiated at the baptism of 289 infants and 117 adults during this time, while he performed 189 marriage ceremonies and officiated at 213 funerals. His church today has a membership of 713.

One of the most curious boundaries in Europe is between Italy and Switzerland. In one place it consists of a high barrier of wire netting hung with bells.

BILL REORGANIZING BATTLE ON SUNDAY AGRICULTURAL DEPT. READY FOR SOLONS

Harrisburg, March 17.—The bill for the reorganization of the department of agriculture, which Secretary Rasmussen has prepared after consultation with officials of agricultural organizations of the state, will be introduced in the senate on Monday night by E. E. Jones of Susquehanna county, chairman of the agricultural committee. The department is asking for an appropriation of $1,319,500. It received $915,000 at the 1917 session.

In the reorganization of the department, the aim has been to establish the various bureaus along the same lines as those of the United States department of agriculture. There will be six bureaus, as follows: Animal industry, plant industry, foods, market, statistics and chemistry. The farmers' institutes, specific advisory work, economic problems and special work will be conducted directly by the Secretary of agriculture.

The bureau of animal industry will take over all of the work formerly delegated to the state livestock sanitary board and, in addition, it will have new problems which Secretary Rasmussen plans for the benefit of the dairy interests of the state. The bureau of plant industry will supplant the bureau of economic zoology; and the bureau of foods will take the place of the dairy and food bureau. While the farmers' institutes will be retained, it is expected to carry on this feature of the work of reaching the mass of the farmers thru the co-operation of farm bureaus, granges and other agricultural organizations of each community.

There is nothing in the bill relative to the future co-operation of departments on milk and dairy inspection, but Secretary Rasmussen stated today that these matters were receiving the attention of the health and other departments and that some definite plan would be reached within a short time.

The bill eliminates the commission of agriculture instituted during the Brumbaugh administration, and also will abolish the state board of agriculture which was organized in 1879. The board is composed of sixty-four members elected by the county agricultural societies, three members appointed by the governor, one member of the State Poultry association and one from the state Bee-Keepers' association.

It is the belief of Governor Sprout, Secretary Rasmussen and others that the advice and counsel of the reorganized agricultural and business organizations in the state, each organization familiar with its particular work, will be more effective in solving the agricultural problems of the state than an appointed commission.

Secretary Rasmussen, in outlining the work which he hopes to achieve thru the department, said it will be the purpose of the department to work in harmony with Pennsylvania State College and the federal government.

To Co-Operate with Farm Agents

"The particular instances thru which we will come in contact with State College," said Secretary Rasmussen, "will be thru the farm bureaus. Especially in our work of marketing organization and cooperative farmer's associations will we co-operate with the farm bureau agents and utilize their services in their particular communities, so far as their time will permit. In plant and animal disease control we will also have to have the cooperation of the farm bureau agents and the college, but we want to forget what agency is doing the work and bend our efforts to eradicating and checking diseases which are collecting an enormous toll on agriculture each year.

The bill is to be made an administration measure and Governor Sprout, in a statement issued today in which he said:

"What has been done is preparing to place the department of Agriculture on a business basis, centralizing the administration of the department and making the secretary responsible."

BATTLE ON SUNDAY MOVIE LAW BEGINS AT PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh, March 17.—The passage of the Rorke bill legalizing Sunday movies in Pennsylvania was demanded by the organized laboring men of Pittsburgh's industrial district at a public hearing held here today before the legislative committee was virtually swamped by resolutions from representative unions demanding that Sunday shows be permitted. Dozens of labor leaders appeared and pleaded for passage of the bill. The moving picture industry was also represented. The church men of Western Pennsylvania were also out in force to oppose the bill. With hundreds of resolutions there were church delegates from New Castle, Beaver Falls, Sharon, Grove City, Kittanning, Oil City, Indiana, Greensburg, Uniontown, Washington, McKeesport and DuBois. D. B. Hiner, former congressman and now Internal Revenue Collector at Kittanning presented a petition against the bill from 800 Kittanning people.

ENTERED NORTH AMERICAN CONTEST

Thoburn Collins, son of Rev. John C. Collins, of the Eleventh street M. E. church, has enrolled in the Philadelphia North American's salesmanship contest. Thoburn is an energetic, deserving young man and will greatly appreciate any help received at the hands of Clearfield people generally. He would be pleased to handle your renewals and accept new subscriptions from all who desire to subscribe for the paper.

AMERICA'S IMMORTALS

ARTHUR F. BRANDT,
Corporal, Co. E, 168th Infantry.

Corporal Brandt, whose home was with his mother, Mrs. W. F. Brandt at Postville, Iowa, won the Distinguished Service Cross for conspicuous bravery in action northeast of Verdun, France, October 16, 1918. After his company had been in action three days, during the attack on the Cote de Chatillon and was to be relieved, Corporal Brandt volunteered to guide the company to a position of security in the rear which he had selected. While the relief was being made under shell fire, this soldier and four others were severely wounded by a bursting shell. Realizing that his wound would prove fatal, Corporal Brandt while being carried on a stretcher indicated the route to be taken by the company, being wounded in the face and scarcely able to talk. Through his extraordinary fortitude and will power, the company was able to reach its position over difficult terrain and under enemy fire. Corporal Brandt died from his wounds the next day.

POSTOFFICE EXAMS FOR CLEARFIELD TOMORROW

The civil service examination for postmaster at Clearfield is scheduled for tomorrow, March 18th.

This examination is held under an executive order issued by the President dated March 31st, 1917, and is the second Presidential postoffice vacancy to be filled in the county under this law, except the cases of two of three postmasters who wished to continue and whose administration of the office the past four years was satisfactory.

The term of Postmaster Barclay expires March 26th. Postmaster Barclay recently tendered his resignation because he did not desire to be burdened any longer with the duties of the exacting position.

Under the law the applicant does not have to sit for an examination but is given a sort of questionnaire on which he states his claims and qualifications for the office. This application is then filed with the Civil Service Commission at Washington. Each application is then examined by the commission and the applicant rated accordingly. Following this rating the name of the highest eligible is then submitted to the Postmaster General for appointment.

After the rating of the different applicants, a representative of the Civil Service commission will then visit Clearfield and investigate the claims of the different applicants before the ratings are finally determined and his report will govern the commission in their final recommendation.

We understand the three highest eligibles are returned for possible selection, but the order says the highest must be named unless his reputation or residence be at fault, whereupon the second or third applicant may be chosen.

This provision may under certain circumstances contain "the fly in the ointment," but here's hoping everything is on the level and the best man wins.

There is no way of knowing just how many applications are on file at Washington, but according to the records at the local postoffice the following have secured the necessary blanks:

J. D. Connelly
W. E. Tobias
Don Ginery
Orvis Guelich
F. B. Row
Arthur S. Row
E. E. Jameson
Alex Spangler
John M. Bain
Joseph R. Chase
Dallas D. Guppy
Raymond Ogden
Paul McDermott
Hugh Milligan
Clark Flegat

Under the Executive Order mentioned applicants for first and second class postoffices do not have to stand an examination but for third and fourth class offices the applicant is required to take such examination.

LEGISLATIVE NOTES FROM HARRISBURG

Harrisburg, March 17.—Deep interest in legislation this week centered in the steps that will be taken to carry out the investigation asked by Governor Sprout into increases in the prices to consumers of anthracite coal. The auditor general's department is expected to submit its answer to the government today. There is a bill introduced today by Representative Glass, of Philadelphia, providing for the appointment of a commissioner to investigate the question of reduction in cost of food and fuel and the fixing of maximum prices. The question of Sunday opening of the theatres, provided in the Rorke bill will be debated at a public hearing on Wednesday afternoon, and the mercantile tax will be subject to a hearing on the same day. The Senate has several important measures to consider.

EBERT GOVERNMENT UNABLE TO GET UN- DIVIDED SUPPORT OF PEOPLE OF BERLIN WHERE SPARTACANS RULE

RADICALS ALONE HAVE A PROGRAM

By FRANK J. TAYLOR

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

(Copyright 1919 by the United Press)

BERLIN, March 13. (By courier to Paris.)—German radicals heartened by the failure of the government to completely stamp out the Spartacan uprisings, are planning to proclaim establishment of a Soviet republic next month. The radical element is uniting in drafting a revolutionary program. They are confident they will win from the exhausted government. Even government officials are beginning to admit that the cabinet's position is seriously threatened, despite the optimistic report given out by the official press bureau and the semi-official Wolff agency. Cabinet members, supported by Foreign Minister Noske and others are speculating as to the assurance of the Ebert-Schiedemann government.

Although the government has by no means suffered military defeat its troops have not succeeded in capturing the Spartacans who have escaped from various nets and have retreated into suburbs where they are resisting desperately and cleverly. The government so far has been unable to muster enough troops to capture the Spartacans. Newspapers are filled with ads calling for volunteers to fill up the Republican regiments but the responses are negligible.

Regardless of any claims which may be made by the government agency, Germany is rapidly becoming converted to Sovietism as a result of the radical propaganda.

SLEEPING SICKNESS

"Sleeping sickness" is not a complication of infectious disease.

At a physicians meeting in Vienna in April, 1917, Von Economo described a group of cases of this disease occurring in epidemic form, in which he gave the name "encephalitis lethargica," meaning inflammation of the brain lethargy, dullness, stupor, etc. There is evidence that the disease occurred in upper Italy and Hungary in 1890. Very suggestive cases occurred in the United States in the spring of 1895.

The disease is an acute infection due to a specific virus, which, like infantile paralysis, probably finds entrance through the nose and throat, and which has a special affinity for paralysis of certain muscles of the ferent areas and elements.

It has all the characteristic symptoms of all acute infectious diseases, plus stupor and paralysis of certain muscles of the eyes.

The mortality is rather high—30 per cent. The disease occasionally lasts only 2 or 3 days, but more often from two to five weeks. In one case that eventually recovered, it continued for eight weeks.

For the information of the editor and the physician you interviewed yesterday in regard to the so-called "sleeping sickness," I would like to state a few facts. This complaint is a definite disease entity and not a complexing mixture of typhoid fever, influenza and other infections.

ARMY OF OCCUPATION ADMINISTERS HEALTH LAWS OF CIVILIANS ALSO

By Webb Miller
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
With the Americans on the Rhine, Feb. 20 (By Mail)—While American troops are on the Rhine, the inhabitants of the occupied region must stay healthy, or at least observe unusual sanitary and health precautions. This solicitude does not arise from any undue regard for the health of the Germans, but is an added protection to the American troops.

For that reason a special department of the civil affairs department is keeping an eye on the German sanitary arrangement and health supervision. This department is in charge of Lieut. Colonel Bensen, an experienced health department official.

By orders of the American authorities, the local public physicians in each district of the occupied area report immediately every case of sickness to the health department. The American commander in each town also sends in a report of each case of illness among the civilian population. In case of contagious disease, Colonel Bensen at once investigates in order to halt any spread of the disease, which might affect troops quartered in the town.

In the little town of Linz five cases of typhoid were reported. An investigation showed that the infection started from an unsanitary well, which was ordered destroyed, thereby stopping what threatened to become an epidemic before a single soldier was infected. Several other incipient epidemics have been halted by prompt investigation and strict measures.

The American health department has ordered the local German authorities to test the water of every well from which American soldiers derive water supplies once each month and submit the results of the tests to Third army headquarters. In case impurities are found, the well is shut off.

In his office in Coblenz, Colonel Bensen keeps a series of charts for each disease with each case of sickness, marked with a pin. When the number of pins begins to increase at any one point, an investigation is started. So far not a single case is reported of an American soldier becoming infected from civilians. The strictness with which the sanitary regulations are enforced is shown by the fact that of 214 arrests of civilians throughout the occupied area during the first two months of occupation, forty-two were for disobeying sanitary orders.

WOMAN'S CLUB RECEPTION DELIGHTFUL OCCASION

The home of Mrs. Harry Boulton on Timpke avenue, was the scene of a delightful reception Saturday evening when the Woman's club welcomed the new members.

The entertainment consisted of a program with the singing of patriotic songs, after which Mrs. Boulton as President of the club, announced the names of the members who were appointed to take charge of the soliciting for the American-Syrian relief fund.

The special feature of the evening was the impromptu parody skit "Maud Mulley," played by Mrs. Warren Partridge, Mrs. Philip Reed, Mrs. Boulton and Mrs. Leonard. Mrs. George B. Reed "interpreted" the poem which was then enacted in pantomime. The whole thing was cleverly carried out and brought forth much applause. A buffet luncheon, was served in the dining room to about fifty. Mrs. George Reed and Mrs. Charles Kurtz poured tea, and those who assisted in serving were Mrs. Boulton, Mrs. Orcutt, Mrs. Philip Reed, Mrs. McWhinney and Mrs. Andea.

The reception was a success from every standpoint. Many new members were welcomed as well as a number of the older members who had dropped out for the period of the war.

RUSH FOR NATURALIZATION

There is an unprecedented rush all over the country by aliens for naturalization as American citizens, and as a result the Department of Commerce and Labor which superintends and investigates each of these applications is literally swamped.

Thus far in March fifty-five Clearfield county aliens have made their declarations at the Prothonotary's office. The Prothonotary is unable to issue final papers at this time because of lack of supplies and department being unable to supply them.

The rush for naturalization is not confined to any particular nationality, but the local applicants are mostly Lithuanians and Italians, with here and there a German or Austrian who have to be turned down as alien enemies.

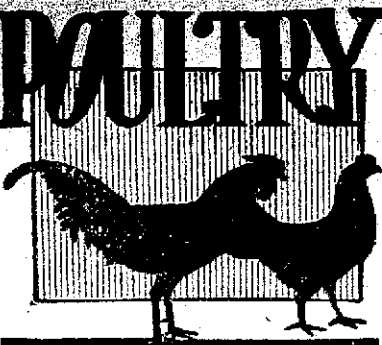

Although green is the gala color of the Turks it is seldom found in Turkish rugs. This is because the Turk does not approve of the use of the color where it would be trodden by the feet.

PLACES SAFEGUARD AROUND HER HOME

Mrs. J. J. Johnson, 220 W. Allegheny Ave., Philadelphia, believes in the efficacy about an ounce of prevention being worth a pound of cure. "I suffered from a run-down system, gastritis and stomach trouble," she says. "Every once in a while I was subjected to severe attacks of gastritis, with pain and distress and belching so bad I had to call in my neighbors. Now, after using Tanlac pretty freely, I have my condition under control. I now always keep Tanlac around the home to safeguard the future. I have every faith in Tanlac."

The genuine J. I. Gore Co. Tanlac is now sold here by Stewart Drug Co. and Woodward & McPherson.

IMPORTANT KIND OF POULTRY

Common Economic Classification Is Based Upon Adaptation to Certain Lines of Food.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The first step toward the increase of supplies of poultry products through the use of the type best suited to production is to get a correct understanding of type. In fowls, the most important kind of poultry, the common economic classification is based upon the adaptation of certain types to certain lines of food production. Three such distinct types are recognized—the egg type, the meat type and the dual-purpose type, which is commonly considered an intermediate of the other two, though in reality it is the primary type of which the others are modifications.

Because the smallest standard breeds are distinctly of the egg type, the largest breeds are good layers only.

Chickens Are Usually More Healthy When Kept on Open Range.

under expert care, and the best known of the dual-purpose breeds are of medium size and weight, small size and great activity are commonly supposed to be characteristic of the egg type, large size and an indolent temperament are supposed to characterize the meat type, and medium size without either marked energy or great indolence is supposed to be characteristic of a mediocre dual-purpose type. These misconceptions arise from a too literal acceptance of the designation of a type as the definition of that type.

Not only do breed types tend to change but ideas of breeders as to the most desirable type for a breed change. In fact the breeders are rarely in full agreement as to the precise type which should be preferred, and consequently nearly every breeder of superior ability has his "strain," which while conforming to the general description of the standard presents distinctive peculiarities in points where a standard cannot be rigid. Such elasticity in the application of standards is in the nature of the case inevitable. It is not at variance with the purpose of standards in stock production but is in harmony with their function of securing general progress toward approved ideals.

Within the range of each breed type there exist, on a much smaller scale but still in marked degree, the same differences which distinguish the three general types—the egg type, meat type and dual-purpose type. Observation of individual differences along these lines gives insight into the properties of type which affect production.

SLACKER FOWLS NOT WANTED

Connecticut Bureau Arranging Demonstrations Showing How Loafers May Be Detected.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Sell your slacker hens and buy War Savings stamps is the advice of the county agent in Middlesex county, Conn. The county farm bureau is arranging slacker-hen demonstrations showing how these hens may be detected and disposed of to advantage. Good fat hens will bring 35 to 38 cents per pound, live weight, at the present time. In these days when ill-health means direct loss the farmer cannot afford to support loafers on the job, says the county agent.

PRODUCING EGGS IN WINTER

Comb of Laying Hen Is Bright and Red and Pin Bones Well Spread Apart—Mate Lays.

If winter egg production is desired, only winter layers should be bred. It is easy to select the laying hen. Her comb is bright and red and her pin bones will be well spread apart. Observations should be made during the winter so that the poultry keeper will know which of his hens are good layers. These should be marked so that they may be used for mating next spring.

No fewer than 250 of the members of the new British House of Commons saw service in the war.

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women as well as men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep in the pink of condition. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

WE are offering you the Columbus wagon because there is no better to offer you. If you know wagons at all you know this is true. The Columbus we can show you today is the same high grade wagon, as always, with every new improvement.

The works where Columbus wagons are made were established over seventy years ago—Ever since they have been turning out the very highest grade wagon made. There has never been a time when the men who built Columbus wagons—the men in the factories—have not had pride in their work.

Consult your own knowledge of what Columbus wagons have been doing for farmers these many years. Then come in and look the Columbus over as thoroughly as you please. Come in and study the high wheel, the folding end gate and link end rods, the strength of gears, wheels and box, and all the details.

SPORTING NOTES OF THE SEASON

PROPOSED WILLARD-DEMPSY FIGHT SETTING SPORT WORLD IN FLAMES

By TOM LEWIS

(Sports Editor United Press)

NEW YORK, March 17.—Interest in the forthcoming championship contest between Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey is increasing daily, according to well-informed boxing enthusiasts. It is predicted here that the bout will draw a record-breaking crowd if the fight is staged within easy accessibility of the Eastern and Middle Western States.

The fact that Dempsey has disposed of many of his opponents with such remarkable ease has made him tremendously popular with fight-lovers and many here are inclined to believe that the challenger will give the champion the battle of his pugilistic career. Willard, too, is assured of the support of thousands of fans who believe that he will dispose of Dempsey with comparative ease if he can throw off his surplus weight and get into good condition before the July 4 contest.

Some believe that Tex Rickard, the promoter of the scheduled bout, took a long chance when he offered such a huge inducement to get the contestants together, but Rickard, an old hand at the game, smiles confidently and declares that he has no misgivings as to the total gate receipts. Rickard bases his confidence on the theory that the country is ripe for a championship contest in the heavyweight division and he believes that the returning soldiers will be very eager to witness the fight. Hundreds of thousands of Americans have learned to box, as a direct result of their war training, and Rickard points out that these men will not only want to box themselves but will also be keenly interested in the sport from the viewpoint of the spectator. This circumstance, coupled with the fact that the best men in the heavyweight division have been idle for a long time, leads Rickard and others to believe that the big bout will find immediate popular favor.

VICTORIOUS GIRLS WIN OVER RIDGWAY

Another record breaking crowd of enthusiastic basket ball fans saw the Champion Clearfield girls defeat the Ridgway girls to the tune of 25 to 18. The Ridgway High school girls gave the local girls the best game of the season. Ridgway was ahead by the score of 13 to 10 at the end of first half.

Physical Director Graffius gave a good exhibition with his Junior girls, a class of 20 girls. They gave an exhibition and dumbbell drill, and Indian club swinging between halves. Miss Evelyn Smith played the piano for the drill.

In the second half, the Clearfield girls got busy, used signals and formations which kept the Ridgway team guessing. As the game progressed the fans grew more excited and you couldn't hear yourself think, there was so much cheering. The Clearfield girls forged ahead right at the start of the second half and they guarded the Ridgway girls so close that they were unable to score a field goal the second half.

SPORTSMEN WILL HOLD "VERMIN" PRIZE SHOOT

The nesting season for our game birds will soon be here and it is our duty to protect these birds as much as possible at that time against these enemies, so we have decided to hold a fifteen day "vermin shoot" beginning April 1st, ending April 15th.

This shoot is open to all Clearfield sportsmen who have signed the subscription which is now in circulation. The donations will go towards buying valuable premiums which will be offered as prizes to those receiving the most points in this shoot.

The animals and birds on which points will be allowed are: the fox, wild cat, weasel, mink, crow, hawk, and owl.

Rules governing the shoot and the points each vermin will receive will be published in a few days.

WILD TURKEY SLAYERS SAFE FROM PROSECUTION

District Attorney Arnold and the attorneys who volunteered their services to the Clearfield County Hunter's association in the proposed prosecution of Secretary Kalbfus of the State Game commission and the local game wardens who killed the wild turkeys at Kennedy park and Bella Landing in December last, informed the committee Saturday last that a prosecution could not be successfully maintained against these officials. Under an amendment inserted in the game laws when the same were codified at the 1917 session of the legislature, it states that "the provisions of these game laws shall not apply to the game commission and its duly authorized agents." The game commission is thus at liberty under the law to slay and slaughter when they so will it, and no person or organization can stop them.

CLEARFIELD DEFEATS TYRONE

The Clearfield team defeated Tyrone Saturday night by 44 pins. The bowling was low on the average. Clearfield won the first by 60 pins, the second by 186 pins and the last one by 98 pins.

H. Roseberry had the highest score of 578 pins, an average of 193 pins per game and also the high individual score of 216. R. Roseberry was second with 507 for the three games. Kibler led for Tyrone with 478 pins.

MAKE VICTORY LOAN AN OLD AGE PROP

Young Man's Chance to Evade Middle-Life Dependency.

Any young man who will take a minute to study the tables upon which insurance companies base their risks will find therein an incentive for making the biggest possible investment in the Victory Liberty Loan.

The tables were compiled to enable insurance men to get reliable death rate averages. But in their preparation very interesting facts were also established bearing upon the earning capacity and ultimate fortunes of the subjects kept under observation.

It should point a moral to every young man to learn that in one hundred cases upon which are based many important insurance figures, only five of the subjects died possessed of sufficient means to pay for their own funerals.

When observation was begun, one hundred men of good health and standing, aged twenty-five years, were selected. Their careers were followed through life. At the age of 45 sixteen were dead, fifteen were no longer self-supporting, sixty-five were still able to work but had no other means of support than their wages, and only four were wealthy.

Think of it! Only four per cent of those young men, who started in the prime of life under the same circumstances, in the same town, with the same health and the same opportunities, reached the age of 45 with means to enable them to face with confidence the downhill path of declining years.

At 55 years thirty were dependent upon children, relatives or charity. At 65 only ten of them, including the four wealthy men, were still self-supporting. And at 75, sixty-three of the original 100 were dead without leaving any estate and all of the others, excepting the few possessing wealth, were supported by their children, their relatives or by charity.

These are no imaginary instances, but hard, matter-of-fact illustrations upon which the biggest insurance companies of the country stake their resources.

There is a wonderful sermon to young men in this little story. It is taken from the book of Life and it preaches Thrift. Unless the habit of saving is acquired in youth the prospects of reaching old age with a competence are very poor.

No better means of saving is offered to the young men of the country than that presented by the Victory Liberty Loan. You can share in the loan on the easiest terms imaginable. In buying you will be making the first step toward providing for your old age. Perhaps it may be the foundation of a fortune.

Take heed of the unfortunate experience of others. The law of averages never goes wrong. It has pointed an infallible moral in the case of the one hundred young men of insurance study and observation.

Don't wait until it is too late as they did.

In these glorious days of an unlimited supply of ciphers almost anybody can talk in terms of billions without being accused of entertaining delusions of grandeur.

In spite of the surrender of the Zeppelins it will be a long time before the last ship is sunk by bumping into one of those icebergs the enemy has scattered about the ocean.

The government has asked the victims of submarine warfare to file full statements of their losses with the state department. The day of retribution for the Hun is coming.

Having knocked off that extra half cent a mile charged for riding in sleeping and parlor cars, maybe the railway administration would not mind telling why it was ever imposed.

$25 For An Idea

Some time ago an offer of $25 was made through the columns of this paper for an idea of a fitting memorial to the boys of Clearfield who laid their lives on the altar of Freedom.

What is Wanted

The bare outline of a plan for the memorial is all that is wanted; the details will be worked out later. The idea must be clear enough so that detailed plans may be worked out therefrom.

What To Suggest

There has been much discussion as to what should be a fitting memorial for the boys—planting trees, tablets in the Court House, a large monument, a single tablet with the soldiers' names thereon, any of these may be worth suggesting if the plan meets with the approval of the committee in charge. Outline something new for the committee—something that has not yet been suggested.

Who Will Judge Your Idea

The committee to judge the various plans will consist of the President, Chairman of Public Property, and the Chairman of Finance, of the Borough Council. The plan must be such that it may be accepted, adopted and completed and at the completion of the memorial the winning suggestor will be awarded the prize money.

Send Your Suggestion To This Paper

OSCAR BARRETT WRITES TO HIS FRIENDS THROUGH THE PROGRESS

St. Nazaire, Feb. 23, 1919.
Mr. James Connelly.
Dear Friend Skiny:

Just a few lines to let you know where the old boy is. I have often wanted to send you a long letter but never had the time when I thought of you. All the boys back home are on my mind at times when I think of the days gone by. The hardest blow on me was to miss the hunting season; next is the fishing, but at that there will be no big fish caught if they make a camel season for snake bite—air has changed rain?

I am well, have never lost a day since I left home. I don't have any kick on army army life but would rather be home. It don't seem long since I landed last September. We have boys here that left home in September. Some of the old timers are here too, lads wearing three stripes. I don't have one yet but will have soon.

We have a fine place here, almost like home, and have things we never had at home—plenty of sleep and the bugler. I have a spring bed, plenty of blankets and clothes of all kinds; bean coupe; we live like kings. Don't have mess kitta any more, nice tables, and French mademoiselles to wait on tables, some wearing wooden shoes. We get candy, tobacco and cigarettes. I have beaucoup tobacco in my locker. I am in the shop now. I have some swell little place. You got to go out side to change your mind but we get the work done just the same. We repair anything, barring watches and wagons. I have charge of the shop; have from two to six men.

I have a pal here from home; he was book or time keeper at Reed's brick yard when he was at Clearfield. He served at the front and will be going home soon. His name is Peter Malloy and his home is near Williamsport.

Little "Frenchy" was a handy man here. I don't know whether he got home yet or not. I haven't seen him lately. He lives on Nichols street. Their name is Leigey. His father works at Orcutt's.

Some one wrote me that all the people back home, old and young, were getting married. You had better slip a line in the paper to have a heart until we all get home—or is it first come first choice?

Here's how it strikes me: I don't care how much they missed me over there, so the Germans missed me over here.

Tell Bill Davis I will send him some more scripture soon. How is the Virginia wonder, Camper, and all the boys at the clubs? How is "Mink Skin" Waite? Tell him "Old Side-Jurns" is O. K. Does Alice Adams still think he can play pinocle? I would like to have time to write to all the boys.

Is Harry Davis at home yet. I lost his address and never got it again. I sent for it two different times but never got an answer.

We will meet some day for I always had a desire to cross the ocean and still have the same desire. If you see any of my people tell them all about me. I wrote them two days ago. I sent sister the "Stars and Stripes" this morning. Do you ever see it? I am going to cut it soon. I may go on pass for a week if I can get one. Think I want to see a little more of this country before I leave, for I never will come back to see it.

Where is Al Walker? Give my regards to all the boys. I have a few articles to bring back with me. One of Fritz's caps, some buttons—useful articles? Have a pocket knife big enough to make a cross cut saw. I will have enough junk when the time comes to leave.

Will say good bye for I have a letter to write to another fellow. Maybe you don't know this party. How are the boys that come home from overseas. Do they shy at the M. P.—hold on there I mean the police force? So long.

CORP. OSCAR F. BARRETT.
P. S. We haven't had any snow here yet. Birds are building nests rather early. Here's hoping I see you soon.

Was at a seashore town last week. It sure was some swell place. The name was La Boul, I think. I can say these French names better than I can spell them. Now I am going to quit. Going to take a shower bath tonight. We live real here. I belong to the S. O. S.; get it right "Service of Supply"—not the other.

FOR REHABILITATION OF DISABLED SOLDIERS

NEW YORK, Mar. 15.—Announcement was made today of the completion of all arrangements for the conference to be held in this city next week to consider problems in connection with the restoration of disabled soldiers to self-support. The conference, which will be international in its representation and the scope of subjects to be discussed, will be held under the auspices of the Red Cross Institute for Crippled and Disabled Men, a departmental branch of the American Red Cross. Among the participants in the conference will be delegations of prominent surgeons and educators of France, Belgium and Italy.

Highway Improvement

ARMY MOTORIST IN FRANCE

Perils and Pitfalls Are Described by Colonel Tyndall in Letter to Carl G. Fisher.

"There will be a couple of million real 'Road-Boosters' back in the United States when the war is over, as I think all of the men over here appreciate how good roads can be made invaluable. In my mind there is no doubt that the good roads of France saved her in two instances."

Col. Robert H. Tyndall of the One Hundred and Fiftieth field artillery thus writes from "over there" to Chairman Carl G. Fisher of the A. A. A. touring board. It will be remembered that these two were closely associated several years ago in the transcontinental tour from Indianapolis to San Francisco, at which time much of the route of the Lincoln highway was decided upon. Colonel Tyndall is an inveterate road driver and has covered thousands of miles of good, bad, and indifferent American highways. In his letter "home," he goes on to say:

"I have seen movements of troops made in the dark which would have been impossible in any other country than France. Here the roadmakers have scientifically planted trees that absorb drainage on the side and at the same time shelter the highways so as to keep them just moist enough. In some instances you will find a tall poplar standing higher than the rest of the trees bordering the road, at every kilometer, so that you can readily measure distances with the eye.

"One of the great things they do here is to repair a road and even make an entirely new surface without interfering with the stream of traffic. In one campaign we were in, over a thousand trucks passed my regiment, each carrying 22 soldiers. This was for re-enforcement on the flank and was done without the slightest confusion. One does not find here the little holes that cause so much trouble remaining in a road. The potted places are immediately filled and drained, right up to the front line almost."

"As far as being able to orient one's self, I think from now on I can drive blindfolded any place in the United States, as most of my driving on the front has been at night, and the roads wind around considerably over here. I don't have lights and neither do the trucks and other vehicles coming in opposite directions. We are not allowed to use the horn, as this is the method employed for a gas alarm. Sometimes I really wonder how we get through with it all, but it shows how a person can become accustomed to most any thing, and we train ourselves to see in the dark."

GOOD ROADS IN NEW JERSEY

State Has Standardized Upon Concrete Construction—Will Build Nothing Else in Future.

W. D. Thompson, acting highway engineer of New Jersey, says the macadam-surfaced Lincoln highway in New Jersey has been seen to rapidly disintegrate and fall away under the terrific strain imposed upon the road by the heavy motortrucks now traveling it day and night.

New Jersey has standardized upon concrete construction and hereafter will build nothing else on its main routes of travel. Future building will be of concrete of a minimum width of 18 feet with a foot penetration shoulder on each side and laid upon nothing less than a 30-foot right of way.

Two miles of such construction are now being completed upon the Lincoln highway in New Jersey, near Iselin, the cost of which will be $146,000, indicating in no small measure the ideas of the New Jersey commissioners that a heavy initial expense is, in fact, economy in the long run.

Ventilation for Pigs. See that the pigs get ventilation, and in the ordinary gable roof house openings should be made in the peak and under the eaves.

Hogs Most Preferred. The food administration seems to prefer hogs weighing around 210 for shipping abroad. Hogs of about that size will probably command a premium.

Poultry Essential. Free-living is one of the prime essentials in poultry houses.

M. Venizelos, the celebrated statesman of Greece, can write with both hand with equal facility.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

RULES ON SCOUT UNIFORMS

The Boy Scouts of America uniform may be worn by any boy scout twelve years of age or over who is regularly enrolled with the national council, all associate scouts, pioneer scouts, veteran scouts, and all boy scouts who have been granted a certificate of service, provided they are in good standing with the local scout authorities in their respective communities, and all adult officials and members in good standing of the Boy Scouts of America.

It may be worn at troop meetings and socials, hikes, camps, educational trips, rallies, demonstrations and similar events, church or chapel services; when taking formal tests; when appearing before a court of honor for examination or awards; when ordered upon official duties, in such capacities as civic guides or messengers, flag raising exercises, scout headquarters' orderlies, first aid workers, etc.

During the period of the war, all scout and scout officials should wear their uniforms, whenever practicable, in order that they may be easily called for any service for which the scout movement gives training.

It should not be worn when soliciting funds or engaged in any selling campaign; when engaged in any distinctive political endeavor; when appearing upon the stage professionally; when taking part in parades other than for the purpose of rendering services as a scout.

When a boy ceases to be a scout through failure to register or through suspension or expulsion from the troop, he has no right to wear the uniform.

TOM SAWYER A GOOD SCOUT.

"Welcome to the Sea Scouts of America and good luck to you," is the greeting from their brother scouts in Great Britain, says General Baden-Powell in a letter.

"Over here the Sea Scout branch is an immensely popular one with the boys. For no boy who is a boy can resist the call of the sea."

"You fellows in the United States, even in cases where you are living hundreds of miles inland from the sea, are especially well off in having splendid rivers and lakes on which to practice. Mark Twain has shown us the wonderful possibilities for sea scouting on your great waterways, and Tom Sawyer was a top-hole sea scout of the inland."

"James A. Wilder's program of sea scouting is going to have a big boom, and you who become sea scouts under it are going to have the time of your lives, not only in the enjoyment of picking up the work but also in the valuable service you can give to your country as soon as you are efficient."

"Over here in Britain the war has given our scouts their opportunity in many directions and they have not been slow to seize it."

RUSSIAN SCOUTS SEND CABLE

That the allied armies operating in Russia are restoring conditions of living to the normal is evidenced by a cablegram just received at the national headquarters of the Boy Scouts of America, 200 Fifth avenue, New York city, from Archangel, Russia. It says: "The First Archangel Boy Scouts union sends greetings to their American colleagues."

One of the first things the German generals did in their invasion of Poland was to order the disbandment of the boy scout organizations, and the cablegram would seem to indicate that the bolshevik rule had been effective in similarly discouraging the work of the boy scout brotherhood in all parts of Russia.

THE MOTTO OF ONE SCOUT.

A New Brunswick, N. J., scout thus emphasizes the twelve points of the scout law:

TRUSTY Tommy was a scout,
LOYAL to his mother,
HELPFUL to the folks about,
FRIENDLY to his brother,
COURTEOUS to the girls he knew,
KIND unto his rabbits,
OBEDIENT to his father, too;
CHEERFUL in his habits,
THRIFTY, saving for a need,
BRAVE and not a faker;
CLEAN in thought and word and deed,
REVERENT to his Maker.

It is observed that father comes in for consideration, but after the rabbits.

SCOUTS AID THE HOSPITALS.

The Spanish influenza struck New Bedford, Mass., with the suddenness of a bolt from the clear sky. The disease spread like wildfire, and the chairman of the emergency medical relief committee appealed to the boy scouts for assistance.

Eight emergency hospitals in that city and three in Fairhaven were opened to take care of the influenza patients. The headquarters of six of the scout troops were taken as emergency hospitals.

Twenty-five million sheets of music were sold last year by one of the well-known chains of five-and-ten-cent stores.

FEATHER DUSTERS FOR SALE! NO INDEED. IT IS MILADY'S DRESS

And coyly cooed to Percival Belinda wore a sweet pink frock All feather trimmed so new "I knew 'twould tickle you."

NEW YORK, March 14.—A hint to the wise that you'd often hear was "Feather your nest," but it's changed this year to "Feather your frock" if you wish to be as chic as they make 'em—the dernier cri. For if I should give you a tip, you see, on newest of trimming for gowns 'twould be an ostrich tip—maybe three or four of different colors; they're wearing more at the bodice side, where in days of yore a cluster of flowers or fruit they wore. It really makes quite a chic bouquet, these ostrich tips in their colors gay. At the price they cost they mustn't frown; remember that feathers can't be marked "down".

Why really these days when a dame goes by and you call her a bird it is not a lie. Fine feathers all make fine birds, they say, so she's surely a bird in her feathers gay. Though the actual bird that she'd be, I fear, is to judge by the feathers, an ostrich queer.

Each half curled flue in a fringe doth fall (not Spanish Flue.) They are feathers all on the charmingest gowns for evening wear. They cluster so softly round shoulders bare and border the draperies of skirts to hips where they smartly perch a bunch of tips.

Capes, too, are together with frocks afeather for evening wear in the mild Spring weather. Instead of the collars so huge of fur, in which all winter we did immerse our reddened noses and double chins and al of our other facial sins, the collars are now of a feather fluff, that clings round the face in a manner ruff. One on a blonde with its flues aflutter with each soft breath or each word she'd utter, was palest of pink, like a blushing rose, framing her face to her tilted nose. A feathery mass of a pink delight atop of the cape, of a pink as light of chiffon all lined with a soft, old blue and bordered with fringe of the feathers too.

One some French frocks in a manner daring, the plumage of cocks they are also wearing, instead of the ostrich; so take your pick. It's a cocky style and one might say "chick".

But what do you think! Of all the things! The lovely ladies are sprouting wings. Ah, surely this aping of heavenly style is enough to make all the angels smile. In a smart shop window I saw, did you, this new winged garment exposed to view. 'Tis an evening gown of a sunshine shade, the loveliest yellow that ever was made. It's fabric the softest of silk doth seem, shot through and through with a sunbeam's gleam. The skirt and the bodice with graceful drape, caressingly cling to a perfect shape and bunches of feathers in yellow hue perch on the bodice, the sash end too. And round in the back, like a bustle old, two rows of the flues spout their fluffy gold. Then crowning glory, oh glory be! On the shoulder straps feather wings you see, where the yellow flues of the ostrich star, the acme indeed of angelic art. Although to be proper you always try, one must in this gown feel a little "fly".

French Minister Pichon At Odds With GERMAN RADICALS GAINING POWER President On Inclusion Of The League PLAN SOVIET REPUBLIC FOR NATION Constitution In Final Peace Terms

Indications Are That Wilson Must Again Throw His Whole Strength Into Putting Plans In Action

DIFFERENCES ARE VERY MYSTIFYING

By CARL D. GROAT

PARIS, March 17.—Foreign Minister Pichon's claim that the League of Nations will not be included in the preliminary peace treaty was emphatically denied today in American official circles. President Wilson and the other American commissioners are standing pat on its inclusion, it was stated. Surprise was expressed that Pichon should hold views to the contrary. The President, it is known, intends to make a strong fight for inclusion of the League. He feels that France and Great Britain need the League even more than America, hence Pichon's statement astounded the Americans. An early peace is desirable by President Wilson, it was stated, and he holds that inclusion of the League in the pact is vital to the Americans. He was said to be especially surprised at Pichon's action in view of the fact that the French along with the others signed the plenary resolution in January with the League's inclusion. The President plans to attend this afternoon's meeting of the Supreme War Council and those close to him believe that a re-statement of his position might be forthcoming.

By ROBERT J. BENDER

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Apparent disagreement between President Wilson and French Foreign Minister Pichon as to whether the League of Nations covenant should be embodied in the first peace treaty concluded with Germany added fire to the League fight today. Administration officials here were obviously confused as to the situation arising in Paris. It has been the view here that the first preliminary treaty with Germany need be virtually over an extension of the armistice and not subject to ratification by the Senate and therefore not necessarily containing the League's covenant. United Press dispatches today however, indicate that the preliminary treaty will be subject to Senate ratification and will cover most of the peace articles, including those for reparation and indemnities and for arranging boundaries. In view of this the President will certainly carry his fight to a finish for embodiment of the League in his treaty.

52 Senators Oppose League

By L. C. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, March 17.—A clear majority of the next Senate is pledged to vote against the League of Nations' covenant unless amended, the opposition declared today. Eleven Democrats today have declared openly and privately their opposition to the League in its present form. Forty-one Republicans are definitely on record against the covenant. This makes a total of 52, three of a majority. Republicans opposing the present form of the covenant are the 39 who signed the round robin with Norris and Kenyon added since adjournment of Congress. Democrats openly in opposition to the covenant include Reed, Thomas, and King.

Final Action On Military Terms

By FRED S. FERGUSON

PARIS, March 17.—Final action on the military terms of the preliminary peace treaty with Germany was to be taken up by the Supreme War Council this afternoon. The treaty will be presented to Germany by March 25, according to general opinion today.

MILITANT PASTOR ROUNDS OUT FIRST DECADE OF SERVICE

Yesterday marked the passing of the tenth anniversary of Dr. E. C. Reeve's pastorate of the First Presbyterian church of Clearfield. Dr. Reeve begins his eleventh year, as the second oldest pastor in point of service in Clearfield, his record of continuous service being exceeded by about one year by Rev. Father M. A. Ryan, of St. Francis church who came to Clearfield in 1908.

During his pastorate here Dr. Reeve has been an indefatigable laborer in the Lord's vineyard and has given a splendid account of his stewardship during every minute of that time.

Aside from his church work he has been to the forefront in every movement for civic betterment, while his patriotic labors during the past two years have been surpassed by no other individual in this community. In his daily life he has been a model of industry and loyalty to the cause he preached.

undiluted, untiring Americanism from both pulpit and rostrum and no labor for his country in the support and upbuilding of the morale of its brave defenders was too arduous to deter the militant churchman from going the limit of endeavor in every way.

In addition to his labors at home he volunteered for service with the Y. M. C. A. in the trenches of France and was ready with bag and baggage packed to step aboard the steamer to carry him across to the arduous labors back of the front line when the signing of the Armistice relieved the necessity and he was reluctantly compelled to remain at home.

During Dr. Reeve's pastorate he accepted into membership in his church 546 persons. Of these 377 were by profession of faith and 169 by letter. He also officiated at the baptism of 289 infants and 117 adults during this time, while he performed 189 marriage ceremonies and officiated at 213 funerals. His church today has a membership of 713.

BILL REORGANIZING BATTLE ON SUNDAY AGRICULTURAL DEPT READY FOR SOLONS MOVIE LAW BEGINS AT PITTSBURGH

Harrisburg, March 17.—The bill for the reorganization of the department of agriculture, which Secretary Rasmussen has prepared after consultation with officials of agricultural organizations of the state, will be introduced in the senate on Monday night by E. E. Jones of Susquehanna county, chairman of the agricultural committee. The department is asking for an appropriation of $1,319,500. It received $915,000 at the 1917 session.

In the reorganization of the department, the aim has been to establish the various bureaus along the same lines as those of the United States department of agriculture. There will be six bureaus, as follows: Animal industry, plant industry, foods, market, statistics and chemistry. The farmers' institutes, specific advisory work, economic problems and special work will be conducted directly by the Secretary of agriculture.

The bureau of animal industry will take over all of the work formerly delegated to the state livestock sanitary board and, in addition, it will have new problems which Secretary Rasmussen plans for the benefit of the dairy interests of the state. The bureau of plant industry will supplant the bureau of economic zoology; and the bureau of foods will take the place of the dairy and food bureau. While the farmers' institutes will be retained, it is expected to carry on this feature of the work of reaching the mass of the farmers thru the co-operation of farm bureaus, granges and other agricultural organizations of each community.

There is nothing in the bill relative to the future co-operation of departments on milk and dairy inspection, but Secretary Rasmussen stated today that these matters were receiving the attention of the health and other departments and that some definite plan would be reached within a short time.

The bill eliminates the commission of agriculture instituted during the Brumbaugh administration, and also will abolish the state board of agriculture which was organized in 1879. The board is composed of sixty-four members elected by the county agricultural societies, three members appointed by the governor, one member of the State Poultry association and one from the state Bee-Keepers' association.

It is the belief of Governor Sprout, Secretary Rasmussen and others that the advice and counsel of the reorganized agricultural and business organizations in the state, each organization familiar with its particular work, will be more effective in solving the agricultural problems of the state than an appointed commission. Secretary Rasmussen, in outlining the work which he hopes to achieve thru the department, said it will be the purpose of the department to work in harmony with Pennsylvania State College and the federal government.

To Co-Operate with Farm Agents

"The particular instances thru which we will come in contact with State College," said Secretary Rasmussen, "will be thru the farm bureaus. Especially in our work of marketing organization and cooperative farmer's associations will we co-operate with the farm bureau agents and utilize their services in their particular communities, so far as their time will permit. In plant and animal disease control we will also have to have the cooperation of the farm bureau agents and the college, but we want to forget what agency is doing the work and bend our efforts to eradicating and checking diseases which are collecting an enormous toll on agriculture each year.

The bill is to be made an administration measure and Governor Sprout, in a statement issued today in which he said:

"What has been done is preparing to place the department of Agriculture on a business basis, centralizing the administration of the department and making the secretary responsible."

Pittsburgh, March 17.—The passage of the Rorke bill legalizing Sunday movies in Pennsylvania was demanded by the organized laboring men of Pittsburgh's industrial district at a public hearing held here today before the legislative committee was virtually swamped by resolutions from representative unions demanding that Sunday shows be permitted. Dozens of labor leaders appeared and pleaded for passage of the bill. The moving picture industry was also represented. The church men of Western Pennsylvania were also out in force to oppose the bill. With hundreds of resolutions there were church delegates from New Castle, Beaver Falls, Sharon, Grove City, Kittanning, Oil City, Indiana, Greensburg, Uniontown, Washington, McKeesport and DuBois. D. B. Hiner, former congressman and now Internal Revenue Collector at Kittanning presented a petition against the bill from 800 Kittanning people.

AMERICA'S IMMORTALS

ARTHUR F. BRANDT,
Corporal, Co. E, 168th Infantry.

Corporal Brandt, whose home was with his mother, Mrs. W. F. Brandt at Postville, Iowa, won the Distinguished Service Cross for conspicuous bravery in action northeast of Verdun, France, October 16, 1918. After his company had been in action three days, during the attack on the Cote de Chatillon and was to be relieved, Corporal Brandt volunteered to guide the company to a position of security in the rear which he had selected. While the relief was being made under shell fire, this soldier and four others were severely wounded by a bursting shell. Realizing that his wound would prove fatal, Corporal Brandt while being carried on a stretcher indicated the route to be taken by the company, being wounded in the face and scarcely able to talk. Through his extraordinary fortitude and will power, the company was able to reach its position over difficult terrain and under enemy fire. Corporal Brandt died from his wounds the next day.

POSTOFFICE EXAMS FOR CLEARFIELD TOMORROW

The civil service examination for postmaster at Clearfield is scheduled for tomorrow, March 18th.

This examination is held under an executive order issued by the President dated March 31st, 1917, and is the second Presidential postoffice vacancy to be filled in the county under this law, except the cases of two of three postmasters who wished to continue and whose administration of the office the past four years was satisfactory.

The term of Postmaster Barclay expires March 26th. Postmaster Barclay recently tendered his resignation because he did not desire to be burdened any longer with the duties of the exacting position.

Under the law the applicant does not have to sit for an examination but is given a sort of questionnaire on which he states his claims and qualifications for the office. This application is then filed with the Civil Service Commission at Washington. Each application is then examined by the commission and the applicant rated accordingly. Following this rating the name of the highest eligible is then submitted to the Postmaster General for appointment.

After the rating of the different applicants, a representative of the Civil Service commission will then visit Clearfield and investigate the claims of the different applicants before the ratings are finally determined and his report will govern the commission in their final recommendation.

We understand the three highest eligibles are returned for possible selection, but the order says the highest must be named unless his reputation or residence be at fault, whereupon the second or third applicant may be chosen.

This provision may under certain circumstances contain "the fly in the ointment," but here's hoping everything is on the level and the best man wins.

There is no way of knowing just how many applications are on file at Washington, but according to the records at the local postoffice the following have secured the necessary blanks:

J. D. Connelly
W. E. Tobias
Don Ginery
Orvis Guelich
F. B. Row
Arthur S. Row
E. E. Jameson
Alex Spangler
John M. Bain
Joseph R. Chase
Dallas D. Guppy
Raymond Ogden
Paul McDermott
Hugh Milligan
Clark Flegat

Under the Executive Order mentioned applicants for first and second class postoffices do not have to stand an examination but for third and fourth class offices the applicant is required to take such examination.

LEGISLATIVE NOTES FROM HARRISBURG

Harrisburg, March 17.—Deep interest in legislation this week centered in the steps that will be taken to carry out the investigation asked by Governor Sprout into increases in the prices to consumers of anthracite coal. The auditor general's department is expected to submit its answer to the government today. There is a bill introduced today by Representative Glass, of Philadelphia, providing for the appointment of a commissioner to investigate the question of reduction in cost of food and fuel and the fixing of maximum prices. The question of Sunday opening of the theatres, provided in the Rorke bill will be debated at a public hearing on Wednesday afternoon, and the mercantile tax will be subject to a hearing on the same day. The Senate has several important measures to consider.

EBERT GOVERNMENT UNABLE TO GET UN- DIVIDED SUPPORT OF PEOPLE OF BERLIN WHERE SPARTACANS RULE

RADICALS ALONE HAVE A PROGRAM

By FRANK J. TAYLOR

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright 1919 by the United Press)

BERLIN, March 13. (By courier to Paris.)—German radicals heartened by the failure of the government to completely stamp out the Spartacan uprisings, are planning to proclaim establishment of a Soviet republic next month. The radical element is uniting in drafting a revolutionary program. They are confident they will win from the exhausted government. Even government officials are beginning to admit that the cabinet's position is seriously threatened, despite the optimistic report given out by the official press bureau and the semi-official Wolff agency. Cabinet members, supported by Foreign Minister Noske and others are speculating as to the assurance of the Ebert-Schiedemann government.

Although the government has by no means suffered military defeat its troops have not succeeded in capturing the Spartacans who have escaped from various nets and have retreated into suburbs where they are resisting desperately and cleverly. The government so far has been unable to muster enough troops to capture the Spartacans. Newspapers are filled with ads calling for volunteers to fill up the Republican regiments but the responses are negligible.

Regardless of any claims which may be made by the government agency, Germany is rapidly becoming converted to Sovietism as a result of the radical propaganda.

SLEEPING SICKNESS

"Sleeping sickness" is not a complication of infectious disease.

At a physicians meeting in Vienna in April, 1917, Von Economo described a group of cases of this disease occurring in epidemic form, in which he gave the name "encephalitis lethargica," meaning inflammation of the brain lethargy, dullness, stupor, etc. There is evidence that the disease occurred in upper Italy and Hungary in 1890. Very suggestive cases occurred in the United States in the spring of 1895.

The disease is an acute infection due to a specific virus, which, like infantile paralysis, probably finds entrance through the nose and throat, and which has a special affinity for paralysis of certain muscles of the ferent areas and elements.

It has all the characteristic symptoms of all acute infectious diseases, plus stupor and paralysis of certain muscles of the eyes.

The mortality is rather high—30 per cent. The stupor occasionally lasts only 2 or 3 days, but more often from two to five weeks. In one case that eventually recovered, it continued for eight weeks.

Dr. Hillary declares that "encephalitis lethargica" as the disease prevailing in Illinois, North Carolina and even in Westmoreland county and Jefferson county of this state, has been termed, was described at a medical meeting in Vienna in 1917, as an inflammation of the brain with lethargy, dullness and stupor.

Dr. Hillary writes the disease is due to a specific virus and that its more characteristic symptoms are paralysis of certain muscles of the ferent areas and elements.

For the information of the editor and the physician you interviewed yesterday in regard to the so-called "sleeping sickness," I would like to state a few facts. This complaint is a definite disease entity and not a complication of typhoid.

AN INHUMAN MOTHER A WRONGED ORPHAN

JOB "OVER THERE"
HAS BEEN FINISHED

JOB "OVER HERE"
MUST BE FINISHED

EXPERIENCE OF A FARMER POINTS WAY

That our laws governing the adoption of orphan children do not go far enough to safeguard unfortunates is evidenced time and again by appalling facts brought out in juvenile court. While a large percentage of these children find their way into good homes where they brighten the lives of others while working out their own destiny, it is a regrettable fact that there are families who look upon the orphan children as their prey and as serfs to do their bidding during the tender years when children should be enjoying life and developing into men and women. Ofttimes the pious, matronly looking woman seeking to adopt a child turns out to be a virtual slave driver and a cruel foster mother. Among the cases coming to our attention recently is one where the foster mother, if mother she can be called, forced a little girl to chew tobacco as a punishment for some childish prank. With the legal adoption of an orphan the child passes beyond the protection of the law. The recurrence of these brutal happenings indicate that a visit from a state officer occasionally to determine how the child is being treated and cared for would be blessing.

A farmer within a short distance of Clearfield tells us that he has a beautiful grove in which picnic parties gather each summer to enjoy themselves. Community gatherings are held there too, all without charge to the people, except that they are supposed to gather up the papers, broken dishes, crusts of bread, rinds of melons, etc. The farmer feels that it is the duty of the people to take care of his property to this extent and more than that, he is a tidy man and believes that everything has its place and should be put there. This farmer likens the war to a picnic party although he says that there was nothing joyous connected with it.

During the two years of war the people of our country were so busy doing just the absolutely necessary things that the rubbish was not gathered up, coal was mined but repairs to equipment were delayed, brick were made but the brick bats were not cleaned up and put back into the grinding pans.

wheat and potatoes were raised but fences were left unattended.

Uncle Sam built ships but now has immense shipyards with millions of dollars worth of material which must be assembled into more ships in order that it will not waste. He sent millions of men across to finish the job "over there" but has not had quite time enough to get them all back home again. He has finished his job "over there" and now is finishing it up "over here". Here is the whyfore of the Victory Liberty Loan. It is simply to clean up over here.

Bill started the fire. Uncle Sam put it out. Now let us all pull together to clean up the debris.

CHAIN PRAYERS AGAIN

Apparently there are still several hundred people in this community who have time enough to spare to waste a lot of it writing foolish chain letters from which they copy prayers ten at a time and then have the gall to pass them on to their friends with a request to do likewise. We wonder sometimes whether these prayer copyists would know how to get down on their knees and make a real supplication to the Most High. Again we wonder if the kettle was not boiling dry or the potatoes going unsalted while the ten letters were being written. Then that terrible suspense waiting for the promised something to happen. We tried it once and nothing happened. We know a person who tried it ten times and nothing happened ten times. Of course there are those whose imagination will allow them to ascribe any happening to an answer to their chain prayer but they belong in the same class as those who worry about a death in the family because a cat happened to meow in the key of high C from the attic window.

ROOSEVELT'S LAST WORDS WERE FOR A UNITED PARTY

Theodore Roosevelt's last thoughts were of the great domestic issues of this country, issues whose determination will decide the weal or woe of the next generation. He saw in a united Republican party, just given a vote of confidence and a commission to formulate and carry into action policies of reconstruction, the guarantee of the prompt recognition and successful handling of these domestic problems.

Tangible evidence of this is a memorandum, the last penciled thoughts of the late President. To Col. George Harvey and the North American Review, the country and the Republican party are indebted for the publication of this interesting document which carries a message from him "who being dead yet speaketh." In the leading article of the current number of the North American Review, Col. Harvey sets forth the vital import of this last penciled notation of Mr. Roosevelt. He says:

"Mr. Roosevelt died the acknowledged leader of the great party into which he was born. His last written words, penciled by his own hand a few hours before his death and addressed in the form of a memorandum for the brilliant young man, for whose selection as Chairman of the National organization he was largely responsible, were these, as reproduced elsewhere in fac simile:

My last wish must go to Washington for a day or two to see about a House and a Senate and a domestic policy.

"Hays
See him; he must go to Washington for 10 days; see Senate and House; prevent split on domestic policies."

"Here is evidenced as clearly as if the few words filled a volume Mr. Roosevelt's realization of both his responsibility and his obligation. The simple memorandum marked the inauguration of a definite party policy to be carried through to a no less definite conclusion. It was more than a passing thought or a mere suggestion. It was a Message, signifying the need of immediate and unremitting vigilance in achieving complete unity of action in resolving domestic problems before attacking those of wider range soon to be thrust upon the country—a true soldier's call first to close the ranks.

"Nothing could be more characteristic or more clearly illustrative of the breadth of vision, the foresight, the directness in method and the painstaking attention of the man. Nothing, too, probably could have served his purpose better than that these words should have been his last. Difficult as it is to reconcile one's self to the decree of divine Providence that the removal of that great patriot at this crucial moment was not untimely, we cannot but realize, as he would have been the first to acknowledge, that the last vestige of animosities which might have continued to impair his highest aspirations was buried with him, and thereby the perfect union which he so ardently desired against all things un-American was attained.

"Thus we find the Republican party resuming full legislative authority thoroughly united and incorporated by the peculiar confidence which so often carried it to victory in former years."

From the beginning of history the custom of sending ambassadors has been practiced in Europe, but it was not until the close of the fifteenth century that the permanent embassy became at all common, and not until the end of the sixteenth that it became a generally recognized institution.

ALLETOWN AGAINST UTILITIES STAND OF P. S. COMMISSION

To Cities and Boroughs of Pennsylvania:

The City of Allentown has authorized the Water Department to invite the co-operation of the cities and boroughs of the State according to the provisions of the following resolution: RESOLVED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF ALLENTOWN, PA., THAT the City of Allentown, thru the Water Department, invite the cities and boroughs of the State to a conference to be held in Harrisburg, May 4-9, 1919, to consider the repealing of the Public Service Law or such modification as will protect the cities and boroughs of the State in their right to build and own public utilities and to defend them against the unreasonable demands of the Public Utilities Corporations.

The City of Allentown is very much interested in the adverse decision of the Public Service Commission against cities and boroughs throughout the State. We have a prosperous Water Department in Allentown and are contemplating building an electric light plant, but we realize that unless some vigorous concerted action is taken to restrain the Public Service Commission in its unfair and unreasonable decisions against the rights of the cities and boroughs the Public Utility Corporations will have us tied so that the further advance of municipal ownership in this State will be impossible.

The City of Allentown is determined to build its own electric light plant and we suggest to the cities and boroughs of the State. It would be a state-wide organization to protect ourselves against the aggressions of the Public Service Commission. We suggest a State Conference on this subject to be held in Harrisburg at a date agreeable to the cities and boroughs of the State. It would probably take us a month or so to organize such a meeting, but the City of Allentown will be glad to take the initiative in the matter.

We desire to ask our sister cities and boroughs this question:—Will you co-operate with the City of Allentown in an effort to have the Public Service Commission law modified before the present Legislature?

There is State-wide dissatisfaction with the Public Service Commission, which is generally regarded as a vehicle by which public service corporations everywhere are legally empowered to rob the people they serve, and the Allentown movement has long been anticipated.

The question of supporting the movement will be before Council at its meeting this evening.

ARMY OF OCCUPATION ADMINISTERS HEALTH LAWS OF CIVILIANS ALSO

By Webb Miller
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
With the Americans on the Rhine, Feb. 20 (By Mail)—While American troops are on the Rhine, the inhabitants of the occupied region must stay healthy, or at least observe unusual sanitary and health precautions. This solicitude does not arise from any undue regard for the health of the Germans, but is an added protection to the American troops.

For that reason a special department of the civil affairs department is keeping an eye on the German sanitary arrangement and health supervision. This department is in charge of Lieut. Colonel Bensen, an experienced health department official.

By orders of the American authorities, the local public physicians in each district of the occupied area report immediately every case of sickness to the health department. The American commander in each town also sends in a report of each case of illness among the civilian population. In case of contagious disease, Colonel Bensen at once investigates in order to halt any spread of the disease, which might affect troops quartered in the town.

In the little town of Linz five cases of typhoid were reported. An investigation showed that the infection started from an unsanitary well, which was ordered destroyed, thereby stopping what threatened to become an epidemic before a single soldier was infected. Several other incipient epidemics have been halted by prompt investigation and strict measures.

The American health department has ordered the local German authorities to test the water of every well from which American soldiers derive water supplies once each month and submit the results of the tests to Third army headquarters. In case impurities are found, the well is shut off.

In his office in Coblenz, Colonel Bensen keeps a series of charts for each disease with each case of sickness, marked with a pin. When the number of pins begins to increase at any one point, an investigation is started. So far not a single case is reported of an American soldier becoming infected from civilians.

The strictness with which the sanitary regulations are enforced is shown by the fact that of 214 arrests of civilians throughout the occupied area during the first two months of occupation, forty-two were for disobeying sanitary orders.

WOMAN'S CLUB RECEPTION DELIGHTFUL OCCASION

The home of Mrs. Harry Boulton on Timpke avenue, was the scene of a delightful reception Saturday evening when the Woman's club welcomed the new members.

The entertainment consisted of a program with the singing of patriotic songs, after which Mrs. Boulton as President of the club, announced the names of the members who were appointed to take charge of the soliciting for the American-Syrian relief fund.

The special feature of the evening was the impromptu parody sketched "Maud Mulley" played by Mrs. Warren Partridge, Mrs. Philip Reed, Mrs. Boulton and Mrs. Leonard. Mrs. George B. Reed "interpreted" the poem which was then enacted in pantomime. The whole thing was cleverly carried out and brought forth much applause. A buffet luncheon, was served in the dining room to about fifty. Mrs. George Reed and Mrs. Charles Kurtz poured tea, and those who assisted in serving were Mrs. Boulton, Mrs. Orcutt, Mrs. Philip Reed, Mrs. McWhinney and Mrs. Andea.

The reception was a success from every standpoint. Many new members were welcomed as well as a number of the older members who had dropped out for the period of the war.

RUSH FOR NATURALIZATION

There is an unprecedented rush all over the country by aliens for naturalization as American citizens, and as a result the Department of Commerce and Labor which superintends and investigates each of these applications is literally swamped.

Thus far in March fifty-five Clearfield county aliens have made their declarations at the Prothonotary's office. The Prothonotary is unable to issue final papers at this time because of lack of supplies and department being unable to supply them.

The rush for naturalization is not confined to any particular nationality, but the local applicants are mostly Lithuanians and Italians, with here and there a German or Austrian who have to be turned down as alien enemies.

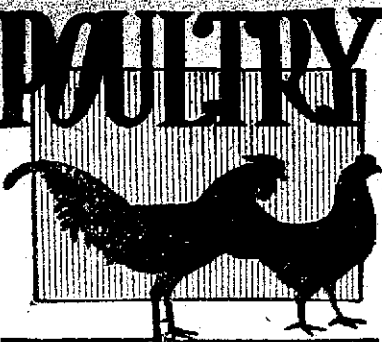

Although green is the gala color of the Turks it is seldom found in Turkish rugs. This is because the Turk does not approve of the use of the color where it would be trodden by the feet.

PLACES SAFEGUARD AROUND HER HOME

Mrs. J. J. Johnson, 220 W. Allegheny Ave., Philadelphia, believes in the efficacy about an ounce of prevention being worth a pound of cure. "I suffered from a run-down system, gastritis and stomach trouble," she says. "Every once in a while I was subjected to severe attacks of gastritis, with pain and distress and belching so bad I had to call in my neighbors. Now, after using Tanlac pretty freely, I have my condition under control. I now always keep Tanlac around the home to safeguard the future. I have every faith in Tanlac."

The genuine J. I. Gore Co. Tanlac is now sold here by Stewart Drug Co. and Woodward & McPherson.

IMPORTANT KIND OF POULTRY

Common Economic Classification Is Based Upon Adaptation to Certain Lines of Food.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The first step toward the increase of supplies of poultry products through the use of the type best suited to production is to get a correct understanding of type. In fowls, the most important kind of poultry, the common economic classification is based upon the adaptation of certain types to certain lines of food production. Three such distinct types are recognized—the egg type, the meat type and the dual-purpose type, which is commonly considered an intermediate of the other two, though in reality it is the primary type of which the others are modifications.

Because the smallest standard breeds are distinctly of the egg type, the largest breeds are good layers only.

Chickens Are Usually More Healthy When Kept on Open Range.

under expert care, and the best known of the dual-purpose breeds are of medium size and weight, small size and great activity are commonly supposed to be characteristic of the egg type, large size and an indolent temperament are supposed to characterize the meat type, and medium size without either marked energy or great indolence is supposed to be characteristic of a mediocre dual-purpose type. These misconceptions arise from a too literal acceptance of the designation of a type as the definition of that type.

Not only do breed types tend to change but ideas of breeders as to the most desirable type for a breed change. In fact the breeders are rarely in full agreement as to the precise type which should be preferred, and consequently nearly every breeder of superior ability has his "strain," which while conforming to the general description of the standard presents distinctive peculiarities in points where a standard cannot be rigid. Such elasticity in the application of standards is in the nature of the case inevitable. It is not at variance with the purpose of standards in stock production but is in harmony with their function of securing general progress toward approved ideals.

Within the range of each breed type there exist, on a much smaller scale but still in marked degree, the same differences which distinguish the three general types—the egg type, meat type and dual-purpose type. Observation of individual differences along these lines gives insight into the properties of type which affect production.

SLACKER FOWLS NOT WANTED

Connecticut Bureau Arranging Demonstrations Showing How Loafers May Be Detected.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Sell your slacker hens and buy War Savings stamps is the advice of the county agent in Middlesex county, Conn. The county farm bureau is arranging slacker-hen demonstrations showing how these hens may be detected and disposed of to advantage. Good fat hens will bring 35 to 38 cents per pound, live weight, at the present time. In these days when ill-health means direct loss the farmer cannot afford to support loafers on the job, says the county agent.

PRODUCING EGGS IN WINTER

Comb of Laying Hen Is Bright and Red and Pin Bones Well Spread Apart—Mate Layers.

If winter egg production is desired, only winter layers should be bred. It is easy to select the laying hen. Her comb is bright and red and her pin bones will be well spread apart. Observations should be made during the winter so that the poultry keeper will know which of his hens are good layers. These should be marked so that they may be used for mating next spring.

No fewer than 250 of the members of the new British House of Commons saw service in the war.

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women as well as men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep in the pink of condition. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

SPORTING NOTES OF THE SEASON

PROPOSED WILLARD-DEMPSY FIGHT SETTING SPORT WORLD IN FLAMES

By TOM LEWIS
(Sports Editor United Press)

NEW YORK, March 17.—Interest in the forthcoming championship contest between Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey is increasing daily, according to well-informed boxing enthusiasts. It is predicted here that the bout will draw a record-breaking crowd if the fight is staged within easy accessibility of the Eastern and Middle Western States.

The fact that Dempsey has disposed of many of his opponents with such remarkable ease has made him tremendously popular with fight-lovers and many here are inclined to believe that the challenger will give the champion the battle of his pugilistic career. Willard, too, is assured of the support of thousands of fans who believe that he will dispose of Dempsey with comparative ease if he can throw off his surplus weight and get into good condition before the July 4 contest.

Some believe that Tex Rickard, the promoter of the scheduled bout, took a long chance when he offered such a huge inducement to get the contestants together, but Rickard, an old hand at the game, smiles confidently and declares that he has no misgivings as to the total gate receipts. Rickard bases his confidence on the theory that the country is ripe for a championship contest in the heavyweight division and he believes that the returning soldiers will be very eager to witness the fight. Hundreds of thousands of Americans have learned to box, as a direct result of their war training, and Rickard points out that these men will not only want to box themselves but will also be keenly interested in the sport from the viewpoint of the spectator. This circumstance, coupled with the fact that the best men in the heavyweight division have been idle for a long time, leads Rickard and others to believe that the big bout will find immediate popular favor.

VICTORIOUS GIRLS WIN OVER RIDGWAY

Another record breaking crowd of enthusiastic basket ball fans saw the Champion Clearfield girls defeat the Ridgway girls to the tune of 25 to 18. The Ridgway High school girls gave the local girls the best game of the season. Ridgway was ahead by the score of 13 to 10 at the end of first half.

Physical Director Graffius gave a good exhibition with his Junior girls, a class of 20 girls. They gave an exhibition and dumbbell drill, and Indian club swinging between halves. Miss Evelyn Smith played the piano for the drill.

In the second half, the Clearfield girls got busy, used signals and formations which kept the Ridgway team guessing. As the game progressed the fans grew more excited and you couldn't hear yourself think, there was so much cheering. The Clearfield girls forged ahead right at the start of the second half and they guarded the Ridgway girls so close that they were unable to score a field goal the second half.

SPORTSMEN WILL HOLD "VERMIN" PRIZE SHOOT

The nesting season for our game birds will soon be here and it is our duty to protect these birds as much as possible at that time against these enemies, so we have decided to hold a fifteen day "vermin shoot" beginning April 1st, ending April 15th.

This shoot is open to all Clearfield sportsmen who have signed the subscription which is now in circulation. The donations will go towards buying valuable premiums which will be offered as prizes to those receiving the most points in this shoot.

The animals and birds on which points will be allowed are: the fox, wild cat, weasel, mink, crow, hawk, and owl.

Rules governing the shoot and the points each vermin will receive will be published in a few days.

WILD TURKEY SLAYERS SAFE FROM PROSECUTION

District Attorney Arnold and the attorneys who volunteered their services to the Clearfield County Hunter's association in the proposed prosecution of Secretary Kalbfus of the State Game commission and the local game wardens who killed the wild turkeys at Kennedy park and Bella Landing in December last, informed the committee Saturday last that a prosecution could not be successfully maintained against these officials. Under an amendment inserted in the game laws when the same were codified at the 1917 session of the legislature, it states that "the provisions of these game laws shall not apply to the game commission and its duly authorized agents." The game commission is thus at liberty under the law to slay and slaughter when they so will it, and no person or organization can stop them.

CLEARFIELD DEFEATS TYRONE

The Clearfield team defeated Tyrone Saturday night by 44 pins. The bowling was low on the average. Clearfield won the first by 60 pins, the second by 186 pins and the last one by 98 pins.

MAKE VICTORY LOAN AN OLD AGE PROP

Young Man's Chance to Evade Middle-Life Dependency.

Any young man who will take a minute to study the tables upon which insurance companies base their risks will find therein an incentive for making the biggest possible investment in the Victory Liberty Loan.

The tables were compiled to enable insurance men to get reliable death rate averages. But in their preparation very interesting facts were also established bearing upon the earning capacity and ultimate fortunes of the subjects kept under observation.

It should point a moral to every young man to learn that in one hundred cases upon which are based many important insurance figures, only five of the subjects died possessed of sufficient means to pay for their own funerals.

When observation was begun, one hundred men of good health and standing, aged twenty-five years, were selected. Their careers were followed through life. At the age of 45 sixteen were dead, fifteen were no longer self-supporting, sixty-five were still able to work but had no other means of support than their wages, and only four were wealthy.

Think of it! Only four per cent of those young men, who started in the prime of life under the same circumstances, in the same town, with the same health and the same opportunities, reached the age of 45 with means to enable them to face with confidence the downhill path of declining years.

At 55 years thirty were dependent upon children, relatives or charity. At 65 only ten of them, including the four wealthy men, were still self-supporting. And at 75, sixty-three of the original 100 were dead without leaving any estate and all of the others, excepting the few possessing wealth, were supported by their children, their relatives or by charity.

These are no imaginary instances, but hard, matter-of-fact illustrations upon which the biggest insurance companies of the country stake their resources.

There is a wonderful sermon to young men in this little story. It is taken from the book of Life and it preaches Thrift. Unless the habit of saving is acquired in youth the prospects of reaching old age with a competence are very poor.

No better means of saving is offered to the young men of the country than that presented by the Victory Liberty Loan. You can share in the loan on the easiest terms imaginable. In buying you will be making the first step toward providing for your old age. Perhaps it may be the foundation of a fortune.

Take heed of the unfortunate experience of others. The law of averages never goes wrong. It has pointed an inflexible moral in the case of the one hundred young men of insurance study and observation.

Don't wait until it is too late as they did.

In these glorious days of an unlimited supply of ciphers almost anybody can talk in terms of billions without being accused of entertaining delusions of grandeur.

In spite of the surrender of the U-boats it will be a long time before the last ship is sunk by bumping into one of those mines the enemy has scattered about the ocean.

The government has asked the victims of submarine warfare to file full statements of their losses with the state department. The day of retribution for the Hun is coming.

Having knocked off that extra half cent a mile charged for riding in sleeping and parlor cars, maybe the railway administration would not mind telling why it was ever imposed.

$25 For An Idea

Some time ago an offer of $25 was made through the columns of this paper for an idea of a fitting memorial to the boys of Clearfield who laid their lives on the altar of Freedom.

What is Wanted

The bare outline of a plan for the memorial is all that is wanted; the details will be worked out later. The idea must be clear enough so that detailed plans may be worked out therefrom.

What To Suggest

There has been much discussion as to what should be a fitting memorial for the boys—planting trees, tablets in the Court House, a large monument, a single tablet with the soldiers' names thereon, any of these may be worth suggesting if the plan meets with the approval of the committee in charge. Outline something new for the committee—something that has not yet been suggested.

Who Will Judge Your Idea

The committee to judge the various plans will consist of the President, Chairman of Public Property, and the Chairman of Finance, of the Borough Council. The plan must be such that it may be accepted, adopted and completed and at the completion of the memorial the winning suggestor will be awarded the prize money.

Send Your Suggestion To This Paper

OSCAR BARRETT WRITES TO HIS FRIENDS THROUGH THE PROGRESS

St. Nazaire, Feb. 23, 1919.
Mr. James Connelly.
Dear Friend Skiny:

Just a few lines to let you know where the old boy is. I have often wanted to send you a long letter but never had the time when I thought of you. All the boys back home are on my mind at times when I think of the days gone by. The hardest blow on me was to miss the hunting season; next is the fishing, but at that there will be no big fish caught if they make a camel season for snake bite—air has changed rain?

I am well, have never lost a day since I left home. I don't have any kick on army army life but would rather be home. It don't seem long since I landed last September. We have boys here that left home in September. Some of the old timers are here too, lads wearing three stripes. I don't have one yet but will have soon.

We have a fine place here, almost like home, and have things we never had at home—plenty of sleep and the bugler. I have a spring bed, plenty of blankets and clothes of all kinds; bean coupe; we live like kings. Don't have mess kitta any more, nice tables, and French mademoiselles to wait on tables, some wearing wooden shoes. We get candy, tobacco and cigarettes. I have beaucoup tobacco in my locker. I am in the shop now. I have some swell little place. You got to go out side to change your mind but we get the work done just the same. We repair anything, barring watches and wagons. I have charge of the shop; have from two to six men.

I have a pal here from home; he was book or time keeper at Reed's brick yard when he was at Clearfield. He served at the front and will be going home soon. His name is Peter Malloy and his home is near Williamsport.

Little "Franchy" was a handy man here. I don't know whether he got home yet or not. I haven't seen him lately. He lives on Nichols street. Their name is Leigey. His father works at Orcutt's.

Some one wrote me that all the people back home, old and young, were getting married. You had better slip a line in the paper to have a heart until we all get home—or is it first come first choice?

Here's how it strikes me: I don't care how much they missed me over there, so the Germans missed me over here.

Tell Bill Davis I will send him some more scripture soon. How is the Virginia wonder, Camper, and all the boys at the clubs? How is "Mink Skin" Waite? Tell him "Old Side-Burns" is O. K. Does Alice Adams still think he can play pinochle? I would like to have time to write to all the boys.

Is Harry Davis at home yet. I lost his address and never got it again. I sent for it two different times but never got an answer.

We will meet some day for I always had a desire to cross the ocean and still have the same desire. If you see any of my people tell them all about me. I wrote them two days ago. I sent sister the "Stars and Stripes" this morning. Do you ever see it? I am going to cut it soon. I may go on pass for a week; if I can get one. Think I want to see a little more of this country before I leave, for I never will come back to see it.

Where is Al Walker? Give my regards to all the boys. I have a few articles to bring back with me. One of Fritz's caps, some buttons—useful articles? Have a pocket knife big enough to make a cross cut saw. I will have enough junk when the time comes to leave.

Will say good bye for I have a letter to write to another fellow. Maybe you don't know this party. How are the boys that come home from overseas. Do they shy at the M. P.—hold on there I mean the police force? So long.

CORP. OSCAR F. BARRETT.
P. S. We haven't had any snow here yet. Birds are building nests rather early. Here's hoping I see you soon.

Was at a seashore town last week. It sure was some swell place. The name was La Boul, I think. I can say these French names better than I can spell them. Now I am going to quit. Going to take a shower bath tonight. We live real here. I belong to the S. O. S.; get it right "Service of Supply"—not the other.

FOR REHABILITATION OF DISABLED SOLDIERS

NEW YORK, Mar. 15.—Announcement was made today of the completion of all arrangements for the conference to be held in this city next week to consider problems in connection with the restoration of disabled soldiers to self-support. The conference, which will be international in its representation and the scope of subjects to be discussed, will be held under the auspices of the Red Cross Institute for Crippled and Disabled Men, a departmental branch of the American Red Cross. Among the participants in the conference will be delegations of prominent surgeons and educators of France, Belgium and Italy.

ARMY MOTORIST IN FRANCE

Perils and Pitfalls Are Described by Colonel Tyndall in Letter to Carl G. Fisher.

"There will be a couple of million real 'Road-Boosters' back in the United States when the war is over, as I think all of the men over here appreciate how good roads can be made invaluable. In my mind there is no doubt that the good roads of France saved her in two instances."

Col. Robert H. Tyndall of the One Hundred and Fiftieth field artillery thus writes from "over there" to Chairman Carl G. Fisher of the A. A. A. touring board. It will be remembered that these two were closely associated several years ago in the transcontinental tour from Indianapolis to San Francisco, at which time much of the route of the Lincoln highway was decided upon. Colonel Tyndall is an inveterate road driver and has covered thousands of miles of good, bad, and indifferent American highways. In his letter "home," he goes on to say:

"I have seen movements of troops made in the dark which would have been impossible in any other country than France. Here the roadmakers have scientifically planted trees that absorb drainage on the side and at the same time shelter the highways so as to keep them just moist enough. In some instances you will find a tall poplar standing higher than the rest of the trees bordering the road, at every kilometer, so that you can readily measure distances with the eye.

"One of the great things they do here is to repair a road and even make an entirely new surface without interfering with the stream of traffic. In one campaign we were in, over a thousand trucks passed my regiment, each carrying 22 soldiers. This was for re-enforcement on the flank and was done without the slightest confusion. One does not find here the little holes that cause so much trouble remaining in a road. The potted places are immediately filled and drained, right up to the front line almost.

"As far as being able to orient one's self, I think from now on I can drive blindfolded any place in the United States, as most of my driving on the front has been at night, and the roads wind around considerably over here. I don't have lights and neither do the trucks and other vehicles coming in opposite directions. We are not allowed to use the horn, as this is the method employed for a gas alarm. Sometimes I really wonder how we get through with it all, but it shows how a person can become accustomed to most any thing, and we train ourselves to see in the dark."

GOOD ROADS IN NEW JERSEY

State Has Standardized Upon Concrete Construction—Will Build Nothing Else in Future.

W. D. Thompson, acting highway engineer of New Jersey, says the macadam-surfaced Lincoln highway in New Jersey has been seen to rapidly disintegrate and fall away under the terrific strain imposed upon the road by the heavy motortrucks now traveling it day and night.

New Jersey has standardized upon concrete construction and hereafter will build nothing else on its main routes of travel. Future building will be of concrete of a minimum width of 18 feet with a foot penetration shoulder on each side and laid upon nothing less than a 30-foot right of way.

Two miles of such construction are now being completed upon the Lincoln highway in New Jersey, near Iselin, the cost of which will be $146,000, indicating in no small measure the ideas of the New Jersey commissioners that a heavy initial expense is, in fact, economy in the long run.

Ventilation for Pigs. See that the pigs get ventilation, and in the ordinary gable roof house openings should be made in the peak and under the eaves.

Hogs Most Preferred. The food administration seems to prefer hogs weighing around 210 for shipping abroad. Hogs of about that size will probably command a premium.

Poultry Essential. Free-lair is one of the prime essentials in poultry houses.

M. Venizelos, the celebrated statesman of Greece, can write with both hand with equal facility.

BOY SCOUTS

(Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America.)

RULES ON SCOUT UNIFORMS

The Boy Scouts of America uniform may be worn by any boy scout twelve years of age or over who is regularly enrolled with the national council, all associate scouts, pioneer scouts, veteran scouts, and all boy scouts who have been granted a certificate of service, provided they are in good standing with the local scout authorities in their respective communities, and all adult officials and members in good standing of the Boy Scouts of America.

It may be worn at troop meetings and socials, hikes, camps, educational trips, rallies, demonstrations and similar events, church or chapel services; when taking formal tests; when appearing before a court of honor for examination or awards; when ordered upon official duties, in such capacities as civic guides or messengers, flag raising exercises, scout headquarters' orderlies, first aid workers, etc.

During the period of the war, all scout and scout officials should wear their uniforms, whenever practicable, in order that they may be easily called for any service for which the scout movement gives training.

It should not be worn when soliciting funds or engaged in any selling campaign; when engaged in any distinctive political endeavor; when appearing upon the stage professionally; when taking part in parades other than for the purpose of rendering services as a scout.

When a boy ceases to be a scout through failure to register or through suspension or expulsion from the troop, he has no right to wear the uniform.

TOM SAWYER A GOOD SCOUT.

"Welcome to the Sea Scouts of America and good luck to you," is the greeting from their brother scouts in Great Britain, says General Baden-Powell in a letter.

"Over here the Sea Scout branch is an immensely popular one with the boys. For no boy who is a boy can resist the call of the sea.

"You fellows in the United States, even in cases where you are living hundreds of miles inland from the sea, are especially well off in having splendid rivers and lakes on which to practice. Mark Twain has shown us the wonderful possibilities for sea scouting on your great waterways, and Tom Sawyer was a top-hole sea scout of the inland.

"James A. Wilder's program of sea scouting is going to have a big boom, and you who become sea scouts under it are going to have the time of your lives, not only in the enjoyment of picking up the work but also in the valuable service you can give to your country as soon as you are efficient.

"Over here in Britain the war has given our scouts their opportunity in many directions and they have not been slow to seize it."

RUSSIAN SCOUTS SEND CABLE

That the allied armies operating in Russia are restoring conditions of living to the normal is evidenced by a cablegram just received at the national headquarters of the Boy Scouts of America, 200 Fifth avenue, New York city, from Archangel, Russia. It says: "The First Archangel Boy Scouts union sends greetings to their American colleagues."

One of the first things the German generals did in their invasion of Poland was to order the disbandment of the boy scout organizations, and the cablegram would seem to indicate that the bolshevik rule had been effective in similarly discouraging the work of the boy scout brotherhood in all parts of Russia.

THE MOTTO OF ONE SCOUT.

A New Brunswick, N. J., scout thus emphasizes the twelve points of the scout law:

TRUSTY Tommy was a scout,
LOYAL to his mother,
HELPLESS to the folks about,
FRIENDLY to his brother,
COURTEOUS to the girls he knew,
KIND unto his rabbits,
OBEDIENT to his father, too;
CHEERFUL in his habits,
THRIFTY, saving for a need,
BRAVE and not a faker;
CLEAN in thought and word and deed,
REVERENT to his Maker.

It is observed that father comes in for consideration, but after the rabbits.

SCOUTS AID THE HOSPITALS.

The Spanish influenza struck New Bedford, Mass., with the suddenness of a bolt from the clear sky. The disease spread like wildfire, and the chairman of the emergency medical relief committee appealed to the boy scouts for assistance.

Eight emergency hospitals in that city and three in Fairhaven were opened to take care of the influenza patients. The headquarters of six of the scout troops were taken as emergency hospitals.

Twenty-five million sheets of music were sold last year by one of the well-known chains of five-and-ten-cent stores.

The illusion of motion in the so-called motion-pictures is based on the fact that the retina of the eye retains an image for two forty-fifths of a second—and that it takes that much more time for the image to fade away. Each picture is still when flashed on the screen, and a shutter cuts off the light during the shift to the picture following. The mission of the projecting machine is to finish each picture so quickly fast enough as to cause the images to overlap on the retina, that is to give the eye a new image before the preceding one has faded away.

FEATHER DUSTERS FOR SALE! NO INDEED. IT IS MILADY'S DRESS

And coyly cooed to Percival Belinda wore a sweet pink frock All feather trimmed so new "I knew 'twould tickle you."

NEW YORK, March 14.—A hint to the wise that you'd often hear was "Feather your nest," but it's changed this year to "Feather your frock" if you wish to be as chic as they make 'em—the dernier cri. For if I should give you a tip, you see, on newest of trimming for gowns 'twould be an ostrich tip—maybe three or four of different colors; they're wearing more at the bodice side, where in days of yore a cluster of flowers or fruit they wore. It really makes quite a chic bouquet, these ostrich tips in their colors gay. At the price they cost they mustn't frown; remember that feathers can't be marked "down".

Why really these days when a dame goes by and you call her a bird it is not a lie. Fine feathers all make fine birds, they say, so she's surely a bird in her feathers gay. Though the actual bird that she'd be, I fear, is to judge by the feathers, an ostrich queer.

Each half curled flue in a fringe doth fall (not Spanish Flue.) They are feathers all on the charmingest gowns for evening wear. They cluster so softly round shoulders bare and border the draperies of skirts to hips where they smartly perch a bunch of tips.

Capes, too, are together with frocks afeather for evening wear in the mild Spring weather. Instead of the collars so huge of fur, in which all winter we did immerse our reddened noses and double chins and al of our other facial sins, the collars are now of a feather fluff, that clings round the face in a manner ruff. One on a blonde with its flues aflutter with each soft breath or each word she'd utter, was palest of pink, like a blushing rose, framing her face to her tilted nose. A feathery mass of a pink delight atop of the cape, of a pink as light of chiffon all lined with a soft, old blue and bordered with fringe of the feathers too.

One some French frocks in a manner daring, the plumage of cocks they are also wearing, instead of the ostrich; so take your pick. It's a cocky style and one might say, "chick".

But what do you think! Of all the things! The lovely ladies are sprouting wings. Ah, surely this aping of heavenly style is enough to make all the angels smile. In a smart shop window I saw, did you, this new winged garment exposed to view. 'Tis an evening gown of a sunshine shade, the loveliest yellow that ever was made.

It's fabric the softest of silk doth seem, shot through and through with a sunbeam's gleam. The skirt and the bodice with graceful drape, caressingly cling to a perfect shape and bunches of feathers in yellow hue perch on the bodice, the sash end too. And round in the back, like a bustle old, two rows of the flues spout their fluffy gold. Then crowning glory, oh glory be! On the shoulder straps feather wings you see, where the yellow flues of the ostrich star, the acme indeed of angelic art. Although to be proper you always try, one must in this gown feel a little "fly".
